

Cargill in Thailand

Our operations in Thailand started in 1968 with the opening of a trading office in Bangkok. Over the past 55 years we continued to invest in the country and grow with the Thai economy and community. We have more than 170 facilities across the country and employ nearly 17,000 people.

Cargill is one of the largest exporters of cooked chicken products in Thailand.

Corporate Responsibility

Our businesses and people are actively engaged in giving back to the communities where we live, work and do business.

Our corporate responsibility projects include:

- Healthy School Lunch: We provide poultry products and eggs to local schools on a weekly basis for their lunch.
- Providing clean drinking water for school children: We install water filter systems for schools in the rural regions.
- Agriculture School Lunch program and Smart Farming: We partner with Suranaree University of Technology and Burapha University to improve child nutrition and train local farmers on best practices in farm management.
- Partnership with Habitat for Humanity: We construct all-in-one canteens for schools in the rural regions to enable a sustainable school meal.
- Support farmers' prosperity: We train farmers on best practices in animal welfare, farm management and biosecurity.

Cargill Activities in Thailand

Our businesses in Thailand include:

- cooked poultry products
- animal nutrition
- grain and oilseed supply chain
- texturizing solutions
- chocolate decorations
- food and beverage ingredients.

Significant Investments

- 2017: Our animal feed and nutrition business expanded its capabilities in Thailand by acquiring a feed mill in Prachinburi to produce poultry and swine feed.
- 2018: We invested $50 million to open the new ready-to-cook poultry facility in Korat. The new plant creates more than 1,400 jobs.
- 2019: We opened the most advanced aquaculture technology application center in South Asia in Thailand to facilitate small farmers in raising farming and feeding standards in aquaculture.
- 2022: We opened the Cargill Innovation Center in Thailand - the company's first protein product innovation center in Southeast Asia.
